Jeff McIntyre draws on decades of experience to obtain, protect, and enforce his clients' patent assets. He focuses his practice in the chemical and biological technologies, with an emphasis on small molecules, as well as their formulations and interactivity with associated devices. Jeff's experience has primarily been in the consumer product, pharmaceutical, and medical device industries.

Jeff's deep understanding of patent office intricacies, coupled with his eye for potential litigation pitfalls, allow him to secure valuable, valid patent protection for his clients.

Jeff is also a skilled strategist who helps clients navigate others' IP in due diligence, freedom-to-operate, and pre-litigation contexts and negotiations. As an experienced litigator, he vigorously enforces and defends against patent infringement claims to achieve clients' business and litigation goals. His extensive patent prosecution knowledge informs creative claims and strategic defenses, providing a tactical advantage.

Jeff is also a Certified Licensing Professional.
